To my clients:

Sixteen years ago, I started at Granville Island Veterinary Hospital as a fresh faced new graduate. I never imagined I would learn so much. To the clients who put their trust in me to take care of their pets, to the wonderful animal souls I've encountered, to the amazing team of professionals that will continue every day to do what makes this place special, I have only to offer my heartfelt thanks.

This has not been an easy decision, and though I'm excited to move on to another stage in my life with my family and my career, there is of course some sadness at leaving Granville Island. Luckily, I'm still going to get the chance to come and spend some time here on a limited basis each month, so I'll still have a little piece of home in Vancouver. I'm leaving a very special place, one I feel honoured to be a part of, and I know with the strong group of people who are here, it will continue to be everything we've come to expect.
